Series Title: Mefloquine documentary

Dates: 1991-2003

Extent: 0.37 m of textual records
1 videocassette : Betacam SX
2 videocassettes : VHS

Scope and Content: Series consists of records created and accumulated by Theresa Burke as a producer for the CBC program The Fifth Estate. These records pertain to the production of a 2002 documentary titled "The nightmare drug," which examined the effects of anti-malaria drug Mefloquine. The records in this series focus on the use of the drug in the Canadian military mission in Somalia and its possible neuropsychiatric side effects. These records document Burke's extensive research work on this topic, the process of interviewing subjects, and other aspects of the production of the program. Records in this series include correspondence, memoranda, minutes, reports, production notes, interview transcripts, newspaper articles, copies of autopsy reports, journal articles, copies of military correspondence, legal documents and contact lists.

Arrangement: Series is arranged by record type (textual records and audiovisual materials) and then in alphabetical order.
