

S00547 - Maclean's files

Series Number: S00547

Series Title: Maclean's files

Dates: 1975-2001

Extent: 4.2 m of textual records

Scope and Content: Series consists of records from Lewis's work as a reporter and editor with Maclean's magazine, including clipped articles, correspondence, notes, article drafts, and research files. The research files are generally of a political nature, including notes and other research material regarding the Canadian government, Pierre Trudeau, federal political parties and the federal election, as well as clippings, notes and research about the RCMP and the McDonald Commission. Files also include notes, documents and clippings regarding the Royal Commission on Newspapers. More general files include clippings, notes, publication planning files, correspondence, readership reports, and other editorial material. Files related to Lewis's managerial role include correspondence, staffing and personnel files, strategic, operational and budgetary planning files, and files documenting his move from Maclean's to Rogers Media. The series also contains a puzzle that was part of a Maclean's treasure hunt contest.

Restrictions on Access and Use: Some access restrictions apply. Access to files in 2011-026/032 to 035 requires prior written permission from Robert Lewis. Researchers seeking access to files from these boxes must make written application to Lewis through the University Archivist, outlining their research project and their purpose in consulting these records.
