Biographical Sketch/ Administrative History: Sheldon Esbin, a Toronto-born lawyer and property developer, was educated at the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall Law School, where he graduated in 1964. He was called to the Bar of Ontario in 1966. After joining real estate law firm Spencer Romberg in 1966, Esbin and his colleague Arthur Resnick founded an adjunct mortgage lending business for the firm, which became Rompsen Investment Corporation, focusing on commercial and industrial mortgages. Esbin practised law with Spencer Romberg for 26 years before working exclusively as managing general partner of Rompsen. Esbin is a collector of Toronto-related rare books, archival materials and ephemera.

Scope and Content: Collection consists of newspapers, artifacts, ephemera, photographs, postcards, flyers and brochures, stamps, correspondence, posters, business records, and commercial and residential property promotional materials, collected and maintained by Sheldon Esbin between the 1980s and 2000s. These items predominantly pertain to pre- and post-amalgamation Toronto and the history of its neighbourhoods, architecture, religious and educational institutions, organizations, publications, cultural and arts-related events, tourism, real estate and building developments, commercial trade, and special events. Also included in this collection are pieces of original correspondence and legal documents dating from 1842 to 1874, written by or pertaining to the activities of prominent Toronto citizens including Adam Wilson, Christopher Widmer, John Davis, Frederic Cumberland, Allan Maclean Howard, Hugh Richardson, James Scott Howard, and John Hillyard Cameron.

Scope and Content: Series consists of advertising cards pertaining to commerce and industry in the pre-amalgamation City of Toronto, primarily during the late 1800s and early 1900s. The records in this series document the types of businesses operating and the products available during this period. Most cards are illustrated with decorative images or examples of commercial products, and some cards feature depictions of Toronto locations, such as the Empress Hotel, the Ford Hotel, the Queen City Oil Works, Toronto Harbour, the "Mail" publishing house, the British American Assurance Company building, government buildings, and the Thompson's dry goods store. Included are cards for stores selling clothing, shoes, jewellery, groceries and dry goods, art and antiques, furniture, and books and

Scope and Content: Series consists of advertising cards pertaining to commerce and industry in the pre-amalgamation City of Toronto, primarily during the late 1800s and early 1900s. The records in this series document the types of businesses operating and the products available during this period. Most cards are illustrated with decorative images or examples of commercial products, and some cards feature depictions of Toronto locations, such as the Empress Hotel, the Ford Hotel, the Queen City Oil Works, Toronto Harbour, the "Mail" publishing house, the British American Assurance Company building, government buildings, and the Thompson's dry goods store. Included are cards for stores selling clothing, shoes, jewellery, groceries and dry goods, art and antiques, furniture, and books and

Scope and Content: Series consists of advertising cards pertaining to commerce and industry in the pre-amalgamation City of Toronto, primarily during the late 1800s and early 1900s. The records in this series document the types of businesses operating and the products available during this period. Most cards are illustrated with decorative images or examples of commercial products, and some cards feature depictions of Toronto locations, such as the Empress Hotel, the Ford Hotel, the Queen City Oil Works, Toronto Harbour, the "Mail" publishing house, the British American Assurance Company building, government buildings, and the Thompson's dry goods store. Included are cards for stores selling clothing, shoes, jewellery, groceries and dry goods, art and antiques, furniture, and books and

Scope and Content: Series consists of advertising cards pertaining to commerce and industry in the pre-amalgamation City of Toronto, primarily during the late 1800s and early 1900s. The records in this series document the types of businesses operating and the products available during this period. Most cards are illustrated with decorative images or examples of commercial products, and some cards feature depictions of Toronto locations, such as the Empress Hotel, the Ford Hotel, the Queen City Oil Works, Toronto Harbour, the "Mail" publishing house, the British American Assurance Company building, government buildings, and the Thompson's dry goods store. Included are cards for stores selling clothing, shoes, jewellery, groceries and dry goods, art and antiques, furniture, and books and stationery; department stores; hotels and restaurants; services including insurance, legal and medical practices, home repairs and dry cleaning; products including cosmetics, medicine, soap, food and household goods; and manufacturers of a variety of products including rubber, machinery, furniture and household appliances. Also included in this series are illustrated cards collected as representative examples of racial stereotyping in advertising in the late 19th to early 20th centuries.

Arrangement: Series is arranged alphabetically by address or property name.

Provenance Access Points: Esbin, Sheldon

Scope and Content: Series consists of advertising cards pertaining to commerce and industry in the pre-amalgamation City of Toronto, primarily during the late 1800s and early 1900s. The records in this series document the types of businesses operating and the products available during this period. Most cards are illustrated with decorative images or examples of commercial products, and some cards feature depictions of Toronto locations, such as the Empress Hotel, the Ford Hotel, the Queen City Oil Works, Toronto Harbour, the "Mail" publishing house, the British American Assurance Company building, government buildings, and the Thompson's dry goods store. Included are cards for stores selling clothing, shoes, jewellery, groceries and dry goods, art and antiques, furniture, and books and stationery; department stores; hotels and restaurants; services including insurance, legal and medical practices, home repairs and dry cleaning; products including cosmetics, medicine, soap, food and household goods; and manufacturers of a variety of products including rubber, machinery, furniture and household appliances. Also included in this series are illustrated cards collected as representative examples of racial stereotyping in advertising in the late 19th to early 20th centuries.
